Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Oh et al (6,757,933 B2).

Oh et al disclose a vacuum cleaner filter (260) which is detachably mounted into a dust collecting chamber (400) of a main body of the vacuum cleaner (200) and which filters dust contained in the air sucked into an air inlet of the dust collecting chamber and the filter (360) comprising a cylindrical filter body having a plurality of open parts (364) and an external screw section (346), a porous filter paper (362) for covering the open parts (361), and a cover (351) having through hole fitting (370) and an internal screw section (346) corresponding to the external screw section (see Fig. 4). It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a vacuum cleaner filter as taught by Oh et al to provide an improved filter assembly for the vacuum cleaner which effectively collect particulates in the air stream passing through.

Claims 2 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Oh et al (6,757,933 B2), in view of Alberts, III et al (6,565,637 B2).

Claims 2 and 5 call for a cover having a handgrip and a plurality of projections are formed on the lower surface of filter body. Alberts, III et al disclose a cover provided with a handgrip (see the very top part of filter assembly 10 in Fig. 2), and a plurality of supporting projections formed on the lower surface of filter body to space the filter body from the bottom surface of the dust collecting chamber (see details of the very bottom part of filter assembly 10 in Fig. 2). It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a handgrip and projections on lower surface of filter body as taught by Alberts, III et al in the filter apparatus of Oh et al so that the filter assembly would be easily detachable from the device for maintenance or clean-out.

Claims 3 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Oh et al (6,757,933 B2), in view of Oh (6,732,406 B2).

Claims 3 and 4 call for the handgrip on the side of filter body and guide projections to guide filter to be properly mounted into the dust collecting chamber. Oh discloses a filter body (37) having a handgrip (39) on one side thereof, and guide protrusions formed on the cover to guide the filter to be properly mounted into the dust collecting chamber (see Fig. 4, col. 4, lines 29-34). It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a handgrip and guide projections as taught by Oh in the filter apparatus of Oh et al so that the filter assembly would be easily taken in and out from the device and for properly aligning the filter assembly into the device.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

- Ataka et al (4,426,211) disclose a vacuum cleaner with dust disposal.
- Stephens et al (6,436,160 B1) disclose a dirt cup assembly.
- Choi et al (6,648,934 B2) disclose a cyclone dust collecting apparatus.
- Oh et al (6,660,053 B2) disclose a grill assembly of cyclone dust collector.
- Park et al (6,766,557 B2) disclose a vacuum cleaner.
- Murphy et al (6,775,882 B2) disclose a vacuum cleaner with dirt cup.
- Choi (6,782,584 B2) discloses an upright vacuum cleaner.
